2. Years of Dedication: +- 7 years

3. Years of Active Service to the Community: +- 5 years

4. Complaint / Recommendation / Feedback:

Some time ago I worked together with a TG to create an community event, one thing that stuck out to me was that every time a message was exchanged It would take roughly 2 weeks to get an answer.

Suggestion: A short burst of communication so the subject is resolved in hours or days
Instead of weeks to months. The new Vultustemplorum might be ideal for this.

5. Why that is important:

Easier communication, creative flow (no multiple weeks interruption), serious / personal issue's are resolved faster.

- Might cause longer wait times until subjects get seen, so maybe some kind of priority system would be necessary?

6. How to implement this quickly and effectively [If you do not know, leave this to us]:

7. Include: Zevist CV [for those who have made this document, as an additional document or here]:
